Prince George Order Picker License - Order preparation operation or likewise called order picking as it is more normally known is a method used within warehouse operations and consists of staff known as order pickers. The order picker's job is to take and collect articles in specific quantities so as to accomplish the customer's orders previous to shipment. Order picking is an easy warehousing process. The efficiency in which this task is completed can be directly connected to the productivity of a supply chain. Thus, order picking is one of the most controlled logistic processes. Order picking falls within the category of the warehouse management system.

There are particular kinds of order picking which include: pick to box method, wave picking method, picker to part method or piece picking, zone picking method and sorting systems method.

The pick to box method consists of the order picker only filling the boxes with item which are from their particular station. The box then moves on to other stations until the order is finish. In this process, there is no movement of the order picker employees. In the wave picking method, the order pickers move around to be able to collect the needed items for several orders. The picker to part method or piece picking is similar where the order picker or pickers move to be able to gather the items required but for one order only.

There is no movement by the order picker in the sorting systems method. Rather, stuff are brought to the orderpicker by an automatic system like for instance an automatic storage system or a conveyor system. In the zone picking method, each order picker is assigned to one particular area. They are responsible for only realizing order picking in this specific area.
